Physiotherapy is helping my recovery tremendously. I can stand up now, I couldn't do that before moving here. And therapy has really improved my speech. It's remarkable, and a real achievement for me. I feel proud. The care they provide is amazing.

Care with courage

Dementia care

We recognise that supporting a relative living with dementia can be challenging on so many levels. We work as a family with you and your loved one, to understand how we can offer a new and positive chapter in their life. Compassion, courage and genuine friendship are at the heart of our award-winning dementia care.

Feeling valued

The team recognise that having a sense of purpose is vital to a person's wellbeing, so residents are welcome to help with homely tasks like washing-up or peeling vegetables if they wish. Staff support each individual, ensuring everyone feels valued and one of the family.

Companionship

Each member of the care team takes the time to be with a resident in their space and at their pace, whether chatting over a cuppa or strolling in the garden. Staff listen and support, sharing the moment with compassion. They might give a hand massage or use lighting and music for a calming atmosphere while they sit together. Staff have created a home that is infused with laughter, warmth and love.

“

There is a genuine interest in individual residents – staff listen to them and their family and make every effort to implement individual approaches and wishes.

Relative

Comfort

The Homes are bright, homely and informal and the environment is fine-tuned daily to ensure it is stimulating and comfortable. The care team wear their own colourful clothes, not uniforms, and regularly dress up in costumes making special moments to promote fun, engagement and positivity.

Care with courage

“

The team are full of kindness, smiles and warmth. They truly offer the very best of care to our precious and vulnerable loved ones.

Relative

Military connection

To many of our veteran residents, maintaining a link to the military is hugely important in supporting their sense of personal history and self-esteem. We have close ties with many military organisations and encourage visits to keep the bonds strong. For people living with dementia, such relationships are reassuring in their increasingly uncertain world.

Quality care

Our Homes have received high ratings by the Care Quality Commission and Meaningful Care Matters, indicating that they demonstrate exceptional person-centred dementia care.

Eating together

Meals and snack times are shared social events where staff eat alongside the residents, who can see and taste the dishes to decide what they would like to eat.

Residents are welcome to help themselves to snacks from glass-fronted fridges in the hallways. This stimulates appetites and prompts residents to recognise when they feel hungry. They can also choose tasty treats from the vintage sweet shop and share a few memories too.

Care with courage

Bringing loved ones together

We now have purpose built Covid-secure meeting rooms so families can visit their loved ones safely.

The rooms are well lit, cosy and feature an audio-enhancement system to support communication. With safety as a priority, the rooms have floor to ceiling glass to prevent transmission and a coffee table each side to help create a sense of connection. The residents' side closely mirrors the decor of the Home, which is especially important for people living with dementia, limiting disruption and distress. Outside visits are also possible (weather permitting) in covered designated meeting areas.

Keeping everybody safe

Our dedicated team is committed to meeting, or exceeding, all national guidance to ensure everyone in our care is kept safe. Extremely high standards of infection control, the use of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) and enrolling staff in our regular Covid testing programme all helps to minimise the risk of viral transmission. Almost all of our residents and staff have been vaccinated to protect both themselves and their colleagues.

Using technology

While we recognise the importance of safety, we also understand the importance of keeping in touch with loved ones. We've invested heavily in technology to ensure residents stay connected.
